WHERE can I find it? is sometimes asked by strangers, but never by old visitors.
Now is the time to secure your bedding plants. We never before had such a quantity and never such fin plants as this season, consisting of all the new and rare plants. Hundreds of other varieties of bedding and foliage plants, all at low rates. Baskets, Stands, Vases, Jardinieres. MILK OF MAGNESIA.

THE HARTFORD
ACCIDENT
Insurance Company.
Cash Capital, $500,000.
R. D. HUBBARD, Pres. GEO. B. LESTER, Sec.

Insures against all forms of bodily injury induced by accidental means: such as dislocations, fractures, broken bones, ruptured tendons, bruises, cuts, stabs, gunshot wounds, crushing or mangling, burns and scalds, bites of mad dogs or serpents, unprovoked assaults by robbers or murderers, stroke of lightning or drowning &c.

The records of the years are filled with such accidents, and no doubt will be, so long as human carelessness exists. We are beset with them, from the cradle to the grave, and there is scarcely an individual who cannot refer, within the sphere of his own family or acquaintance, to some accident in which the indemnity offered by this company would have been a blessing worth much more than its cost.

Policies issued for long or short terms providing for weekly payments, in case of disability, and for the payment of the whole sum, in case of death.

The only company in the country that devotes itself wholly to accident insurance. A yearly policy covers accidents while travelling, while about one's business, while in the street, at home or abroad. The premium on each $1,000 is so small that every man is able to secure a policy without the slightest embarrassment. For full and complete particulars inquire of L. D. DAVIS, agent for Newport and vicinity.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED.
SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,
SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC,
SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS,
Are the only medicines that will cure Pulmonary Consumption. Frequently medicines that stop a cough will occasion the death of the patient; they lock up the liver, stop the circulation of the blood, hemorrhage follows, and in fact, they clog the action of the very organs that caused the cough. Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia are the causes of two-thirds of the cases of Consumption. Many persons complain of a dull pain in the side, constipation, coated tongue, pain in the shoulder blade, feelings of drowsiness and restlessness, the food lying heavily on the stomach, accompanied with acidity and belching up of wind. These symptoms usually originate from a disordered condition of the stomach or a torpid liver. Persons so affected, if they take one or two heavy colds, and if the cough in these cases be suddenly checked, will find the stomach and liver clogged, remaining torpid and inactive, and almost before they are aware the lungs are a mass of sores, and ulcerated, the result of which is death. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is an expectorant which does not contain opium or anything calculated to check a cough suddenly. Schenck's Seaweed Tonic dissolves the food, mixes with the gastric juices of the stomach, aids digestion and creates a ravenous appetite. When the bowels are costive, skin sallow, or the symptoms otherwise of a bilious tendency, Schenck's Mandrake Pills are required. These medicines are prepared only by J. H. SCHENCK & SON,
N. E. corner Sixth and Arch streets, Phila.
And are for sale by all druggists and dealers.
Dr. Schenck will be at the Quincy House, Boston, on the following Wednesdays: October 7th and 21st, November 4th and 18th, and December 2d, 16th and 30th. oct8

STOVES.

FIRE PLACES AND STOVES.—THE RESPONSIBILITY OF DR. FRANKLIN.—THEOLOGIANS AS STOVE INVENTORS.—THE MULTIPLICITY OF STOVES AT THE PRESENT DAY.—PLEASURES OF RUNNING A MODERN BASE BURNER.—A HOT SCHOOL FOR ARCHITECTURE.

It is curious to think as we grow more and more homish in our feelings, with the abbreviating days, how with the perfection of modern improvement we have abolished the fireside, which glows and radiates now only in poetry. We are fire worshipers pure and simple no longer—we are only a sect of that persuasion, the devotees of hot air. Seated around a register or a stove, maybe we love each other quite as well, but the fire-place brought play of fancy, and old romantic dreams; it was plain and honest, and not in the least scientific until Dr. Franklin, who meddled in everything, put in an iron back with a pair of iron wings, and from that time to this we have sought inventions of calorification, until their name is considerably more than legion. Now it is that the newspapers are full of the literature of stove advertising. The best burner hardly stays in fashion longer than a woman's dress. We are old enough to remember stoves invented by that great theologian, Emanuel Swedenborg—this was the "air tight" of modern parlance. We remember a stove invented by the venerable and reverend Dr. Nott; another devised by the good and unfortunate John Pierpont, though considering his temperament one wonders what he wanted of a stove in any season. The learned and scientific Olmsted, it will be remembered, brought forth twins. These old combusters seem mostly to have passed into cold desuetude. The public taste in this matter runs to novelty and experiment. But what poetry is there in the names bestowed upon the new inventions? Here is "The Radiant Home Base Burner;" here "The Morning Glory;" here "The Brilliant;" here "The Gem;" here "The Crown Jewel;" here "The Dew Drop" (cooking); here "The Fearless." The housekeeper reads of all the fiery merits and warm virtues and infinitesimal economy of all these, and such is the embarrassment of red hot riches that he hardly knows what to choose. Unhappy man! There is trouble before him, whichever may be his selection. When the mysterious machine selected by him has been sent home—perhaps it is called "The Ruby"—when it has been set up and all seems ready for a regular Russian bath in the parlor, how long before the art may be acquired of running the stove—of opening the valves and of shutting the dampers—of closing this door or that door or any one of a dozen doors! The architecture of the thing is beautiful. Sometimes it is Gothic or Moorish, sometimes Tuscan or Corinthian; but often it requires a first-rate engineer, with a certificate in his pocket, to run it successfully. You learn how to manage it in time—say about the 15th of February and this would be cheering, only you know that the wife of your bosom will want an entirely new pattern, with much prettier decorations, next year. Happy are you if the sweet Spring-time does not find you a confirmed and reckless misanthrope, made so by the combined influence of cold and carbonic gas.—[New York Tribune.

DOGS.

THE NEW YORK EVENING POST says: many a thief and burglar who will afflict society during the next twenty years has received his first lesson in crime this last Summer by stealing dogs to earn the premium offered by Alderman Morris; and many an assault and battery which will sicken the community will justly be traced back to the brutal influence of the spectacle, exhibited daily by Alderman Morris, of the legalized suffocation of hundreds of poor animals, some of whom even licked the hands of their executioners during the preparations for slaughter. If Alderman Morris desires to understand the sin which he has committed, we commend to his attention the following extracts from a recent volume of Philip Gilbert Hamerton's essays; and we pray that his intellect and his heart will be able to comprehend them:

"Only the love of animals, and that of children whilst they are still quite young, is absolutely free from criticism. All our contemporaries criticise us; even our wives do in their hearts, and our sons in their adolescence. It is exceedingly salutary, no doubt: it keeps us in the path of duty and dignity; it saves us from many aberrations. And still, upon the whole, we know ourselves to be such lamentably imperfect characters that we long for an affection altogether ignorant of our faults. Heaven has accorded this to us in the uncritical canine attachment. Women love us in their own exalted ideals, and to live up to the ideal standard is sometimes rather more than we are altogether able to manage; children in their teens find out how clumsy and ignorant we are, and do not quite unreservedly respect us; but our dogs adore us without a suspicion of our short-comings. So great is their power of loving that we cannot help assigning to dogs—not formally, but in our inward estimates—a place distinct from the brute creation generally. They are not mere animals, like sheep and oxen, that may be slaughtered as a matter of ordinary business without awakening regret. To kill a dog is always felt to be a sort of murder: it is the destruction of a beautiful though not immortal spirit, and the destruction is the more lamentable for its very completeness.'

BAD MANUSCRIPT.—The other day a compositor in this office got hold of a part of a page of the chirography of G. M. D. Bloss of the Cincinnati Enquirer. It isn't writing at all, but Bloss seems to kick the ink bottle at a sheet of paper, and then sends the paper down to the compositor as editorial. This part of a page was used as the foundation of a plot to deliberately destroy a human life. A line or two was written above it, Bloss's page marked "solid" and it was handed to the "jour." who had just struck the office. He claimed to be "lightning" on the "set," and on reading manuscript, and he set up the introductory line like a whirlwind When he came down to Bloss he grabbed for a cap "A" held it a second and then dived into the "Y" box. Then he threw that back and picked out a dollar mark, and the type paused, spit on his hands and rested one foot on the cross-bar of his rack. After a moment he grabbed an "fl," but slowly replaced it and toyed with an italic "Z." Then he spit on his hands some more, corrugated his brow, and hauled the manuscript under his eyes. It was no go. He held the page further off, close to his nose, slanting it to the right, and square before the window, but he couldn't start it, and he knew in his soul that no other human compositor outside of the Enquirer could do it. As afternoon faded into twilight he laid the page aside, set up two or three lines out of his head, and then slipped into his coat, said he'd got to go to the depot and see a friend, and he was gone. In his stick he had set up the words, "Tell my mother that I will meet her on the other shore." He probably will. He was seen at the foot of Griswold street, heard to ask if death by drowning wasn't easier than hanging, and it is probable that his marble form now lies at the bottom of the cold, green river, while Bloss is a murderer.—["Quod," in Detroit Free Press.

THE DAY.

Some philosopher has been comparing the human heart to a jug. This gives a new and sentimental signification to the Little Brown Jug song.

A New Yorker was married yesterday noon and committed suicide at six o'clock. and in spite of this awful warning people will probably go on marrying.

According to the best information published the next House of Representatives will contain 171 Democrats and 101 Republicans. Besides these 275 members 17 are yet to be elected. The Senate will contain 43 Republicans and 31 Democrats and Liberals.

Whether the Ritualists are fish, flesh, fowl, or red herring, seems to be partially settled by a hymn that the children were taught to sing at a recent Ritualistic celebration at Brighton, England. The hymn began,—

I'm not a little Protestant.

This disclaimer removes quite a burden from the shoulders of Protestants.

STATE MISCELLANY.

The Logansport (Ind.) Star says: "The Republicans say they are going to keep Rhode Island for seed."

About all the states in the Union have concluded to hold Thanksgiving on the same day that Rhode Island does.

According to the Boston Journal's figures, the losses of Rhode Island by fire, last month, amounted to $42,800, while the losses of all the New England States amounted to $592,800.

One of the first applicants for the twenty-five per cent. dividend at the Franklin Savings Bank of Providence, was an Irish woman from Pawtucket, who had $27,000 on deposit.

We understand that the question of providing more ample fire escapes is being discussed by some of the Woonsocket manufacturing corporations. There are some mills entirely destitute, which is certainly criminal negligence on the part of owners.

As a son of Mr. Benjamin Wyatt, of Middletown was running carelessly along a few days since, he stumbled and fell, and dislocated the elbow of his right arm, and otherwise injured it. He was taken to Dr. Sweet, in Fall River, and he gave him the necessary attention. The little fellow is about eight years of age.

The Narragansett railroad seems to engage the attention of Kingston people just at present. The favored route seems to be from Kingston station, around the south end of Kingston hill, following the valley through Rocky Brook, running between Peacedale and Wakefield, then easterly and southerly to Narragansett Pier. It is to be hoped that it will not end in talk.

The arrangements for the new station at Kingston on the Stonington railroad are progressing. An abundant supply of water has been secured by their new well, which is now completed. Robert Matteson of Mystic, Conn., has received the contract to erect the new station house and a Stonington party (says report) to erect the station master's dwelling.

Mr. Baxter, who is building a road on the land of Mr. B. F. Borden in this village, on Tuesday, the 27th ult., excavated a frog seven feet below the surface, firmly imbedded in a layer of clay or solid marl. It was of the same color (red) as the clay, and to all appearance like a lump of the same material. At first there was no appearance of life, but on exposure to the atmosphere a few minutes, it began to move, and being put into the water, swam off as if it was used to aquatic sports. Now the question arises, how came his frogship there—how long has he been there—and how was life sustained? These are interesting queries, which some scientific gentleman is desired to answer.—[Woonsocket Patriot.

The Providence Young Men's Christian Association will give their annual Thanksgiving dinner at Music Hall, on the 26th inst. At a meeting of the board of managers, in connection with the missionary committee, the gentlemen who have served so efficiently several years in perfecting the arrangements for carrying out the wishes of the association, were reappointed as a committee for the present year, thus giving the assurance that nothing will be left undone to make the evening one of the most enjoyable of the season, not only to their guests, but to the friends and patrons of the association. In addition to the generous repast, which will be served by some two hundred young ladies, addresses from distinguished speakers, music, song and flowers will add to the attractions.

The Coventry Tax Book, printed by B. H. King, Phenix, has been published. The book is got up in a neat and compact form, and contains a complete list of the town officials, and not a partial one, as is the case in some of the neighboring towns. From it we learn that the whole indebtedness of the town on the first day of June, 1874, amounted to $4,562 18, and to reduce that, there is in cash in the treasury $2,614 70, and due from the collector $619 01, making the net indebtedness $1,328 44, which is a reduction of indebtedness since June 1, 1873, of $1,275 51. The gross receipts of the town, less $2,700, hired money, amounts to $23,672 37. Amount of expenditures $22,757, 67. The whole valuation of the town amounts to $3,975,750 and the amount raised by taxation is $19,878 75. The rate of tax is fifty cents upon each one hundred dollars.

The tearing down of the old shop in the rear of E. P. Carpenter & Co.'s store on Mill street, Pawtucket, has brought to light an old post which stood in one corner of it. It was the old post of the only hay scales that were in use in the town for a great many years, before the day of platform scales, the load to be weighed being suspended from the ground by a lever from this post, the common scale with a pea weight being used. To weigh the load, the horse was unhitched and a chain was fastened to each hub and another to the shafts or pole, and the load raised by a lever. They were formerly located near where William H. Colwell's boot and shoe store now stands; were afterwards moved to near where the Manchester hall now stands, being moved to their last location when that building was built. Some of the oldest residents fail to remember when and by whom the old hay scales were first owned.

On the 5th of June last, Mr. Charles H. Thurber, agent of the Rhode Island Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, instituted a complaint against Mr. Edward M. Meiggs, pound keeper of Bristol, charging him with extreme cruelty to a cow which he found at large on the public highway; on endeavor to drive to the pound. The cow failed to reach the pound, and lay helpless on the common for several days, and was finally killed by the direction of Mr. Thurber. Mr. Meiggs was tried before the justice court and acquitted. The owner of the cow, Mr. Albert C. Greene, of Bristol, the celebrated horse farrier, now seeks to recover damages for the loss of his animal, and has commenced a suit against Mr. Thurber, the agent of the society, Mr. Meiggs, the pound keeper, and Mr. Robert Dunbar, who was one of the witnesses on the trial for the complainant. The suit is brought before the court of common pleas, in Providence county, at the ensuing December term. The damage claimed is $600. The writ was served on Messrs. Meiggs and Dunbar by Sheriff Pearce on Saturday last, Mr. Thurber having been previously arrested in Providence. Each gave ample bail for their appearance.

ODD LETTERED BOOKS.

"WHEN TO EAT STONE."—CHARLES READE'S A SIMPLETON.—HOW PLANTS GROW GRAY. OLIVER GOLDSMITH AS A CLERGYMAN.

Yesterday while unpacking some old books that had been lying "stowed away" in one corner of the attic for years, I happened to glance at the back of one of them, and was surprised to read in faded gilt letters, "When to Eat Stone." Now, as I never supposed that there was any time at which stone could be eaten, I opened the book to learn when this indigestible article could be used as food; but the title page undeceived me, as the book proved to be a work on gastronomy, published about thirty years ago, to which Mr. Stone, its author had given the eccentric title of "When, How and What to Eat," and the bookbinder had shortened this in order to have as few words as possible on the back of the cover.

This reminds one of the philosophical work by Jones, the back of which was lettered "Who am I? Jones." But even at the present time publishers are as careless in regard to the titles of their books. A few months ago Mr. Charles Reade wrote a novel entitled "A Simpleton," and as soon as it was ready for publication, every book seller's window displayed a large placard, "Charles Reade's 'A Simpleton,'" while in every list of popular fiction in the newspapers the same words appeared. Now, I suppose no one meant to imply that Mr. Reade is in the least "simple," but one could not be blamed for supposing a slander was intended.

Some years ago Professor Gray of Harvard College, justly celebrated for his botanical knowledge, wrote an excellent text book, which is still used in our high schools, entitled, "How Plants Grow." Unfortunately the back of the volume was lettered "How Plants Grow Gray," and the book was always called by that title by the schoolboys. I remember our teacher was greatly surprised when one of the scholars asked the loan of a "Plants Grow Gray," as he had left his own at home.

Some time since, being left alone in a lawyer's office, I fell to examining the outside of the books of the library, believing, with Dr. Johnson, that we may learn, or guess, something as to the character of a book by the title printed on the back. After a few minutes a man, (whom I afterwards learned to be an Episcopalian) came in, and not finding the lawyer, began, like myself, to examine the backs of the books. Suddenly he asked me if I ever knew Dr. Goldsmith, a minister in Wakefield. "No," said I. "Why do you ask?" "I noticed here a biography of him," he replied; and pointed to a small, well-known volume, singularly out of place among the law books, on the back of which I read, "The Vicar of Wakefield, Dr. O. Goldsmith."—[Correspondence of the Boston Transcript.

INTELLIGENCE OF DOGS.

Reading the account of the intelligence of the dog which was brought upon the witness stand in Richmond, Virginia, reminded me of two incidents in my own experience. One was in shooting with a friend a few years ago in Monmouth county, New Jersey. I had a brace of duke of Gordon's setters, brought for me from England by Daniel Webster, the handsomest and best pair of dogs I ever saw. About two miles from the ground where we were to shoot the dogs were turned out of the wagon to give them a run. On passing the farmhouse a small cur rushed out at them. The dogs turned on him: the cur, finding he was no match, ran back to the farmhouse. About three-quarters of a mile farther on the road he came up at full speed, accompanied by a big dog. I had to get out of the wagon to stone him off, or he would have spoiled our shooting. The cur had undoubtedly gone to the farmhouse and told his story to the big dog which brought him out to attack my dogs. The other case was this: I had a magnificent black setter of the same breed, which I had raised—a dog of a remarkably fine temper. One morning he came up the steps of the porch and looked into the dining-room window. The hair on his back stood up in defiance, and he began to growl. My wife asked me what was the matter with Prince? (the name of the dog.) I said: "He smells those sausages on the table." The sausages were removed, and the dog subsided.

AMMONIA AND NITRIC ACID.—Careful experiments in Europe show that the rainfall of the season supplies about ten pounds per acre of these substances to the soil; the straw of the crop if ploughed in will supply perhaps ten pounds more. Hence it is that Lawes and Gilbert have been enabled to grow from 15 to 17 bushels to the acre year after year, by the aid of phosphoric ammonia alone: but when 200 pounds of ammonia salts were added to the inorganic manures the crop was doubled. But as neither lime, potash, nor phosphoric acid is supplied by the atmosphere no crop can be grown after these substances are exhausted in the soil.

—There is a movement in some of the churches to engage Prof. Smith of the Newport band to teach music to the children of the Sunday school. It would be difficult to make a better selection for a teacher.

—Union Lodge of Good Templars of Portsmouth hold a public installation Friday night and Eureka Lodge of this city have voted to visit them at that time. A supper will be one of the features of the occasion.

S. torpedo boat Intrepid, having gone out of commission and being no longer available for experiments, the chief of the Bureau of Ordnance has ordered the torpedo to be applied to the Nina, which is to be permanently located at the Torpedo Station. She is now undergoing repairs at the navy yard. The problem then will be decided whether the amended steering apparatus recently tested in the East river, New York, will answer the purpose.

THE CASE OF MR. PECKHAM.—The report that the late J. D. Peckham came to his death from poison administered by his own hand seems to lack confirmation. We understand that Mr. Peckham had been a sick man for many months and it was not supposed to be possible that he could long survive. More recently he had become exceedingly nervous and on Sunday a neighbor called with his wife at the house of Mr. Peckham and noticed that he was quite unnerved and themselves proposed, as they were coming to the city, to bring him some quieting medicine to enable him to sleep well through the night.

The medicine was obtained of a responsible druggist and taken to him. The dose seemed to have the desired effect for when last seen at night he was sleeping naturally. After the body was found next morning the vial containing the medicine was brought into town and shown to a prominent physician, who, after an examination, gave the opinion that it was not of a nature to produce death in the quantity taken. A competent apothecary also said the same thing. The physician, who was well acquainted with Mr. Peckham's sickness, thought there was no need of a post mortem examination and his family are of the same opinion. Mention has been made of domestic difficulties but we are assured that they were not of such a serious nature as to produce so startling a result.

TIVERTON.—Vast quantities of menhaden fish are being caught by the busy fishermen, who are improving the fine weather to gather in their harvest. The fish are unusually fat, and the various oil works are having a trying time to take care of the fish that are brought them. Many of them are running nights as well as days, and some of them on the Sabbath.—William Brightman is building a cottage house with ell, near Stone Bridge; also, Mr. Giles Chace is building a two-story house a short distance east of the Tiverton Four Corners.—The grounds about the Baptist church, near stone bridge, have been nicely graded and terraced, and a substantial bank wall with stone steps has been placed on the east side of the enclosure in front of the building. Persons desirous of using the telegraph will be glad to learn that a commercial wire has been placed at Tiverton station, and Mr. Smith, the gentlemanly depot master, is ready to wait upon any one who desires to transmit messages. Clark Estes and Gideon H. Durfee have been appointed to carry to the supreme court the case of the town against Joseph Osborne and others; who, owning mill stock in Fall River, refuse to pay taxes thereon in Tiverton, declaring that they have paid their mill stock taxes in Fall River and do not propose to pay them again.

THE VERY BEST OF REASONS.—A correspondent recently visited the Tchoufeta river country in Louisiana, and was obliged to remain over night at a farmhouse, where, although the occupants were hardly recovered from the effects of the flood, he was hospitably entertained. The family consisted of father, mother, a son about twelve years old, and a daughter about nineteen. The correspondent retired early, and soon sank into profound slumber, from which he was awakened at some unknown hour of the night by strange sounds coming from the veranda immediately beneath his window. At first he thought somebody was trying to pull off a tight boot, then he was confident that some member of the household had determined to fight out an obstinate attack of the colic on that verandah if it took all night, but he finally concluded that a lively wrestling match was in wordless but earnest process. Going to the window to see the fun he discovered a tall, sandy-haired, shambling youth standing in close proximity to the daughter of the house. One red, big-jointed hand rested on her shoulder, and his face wore the expression of a man who had swallowed a cockroach with his hash. The struggle was apparently over, for he was just in time to hear the girl say: "I tell you, no! It ain't no use to bother. You ain't got nothin', and you ain't makin' nothin', and beside, you ain't pretty not a bit!" The mystery was solved.

THE AMERICAN GIRL.

MODESTY AND SIMPLICITY AND THEIR OPPOSITES.—THE FAULTS OF TRAINING.—FREE AND EASY MANNERS.—THE KITCHEN AND ITS RELATION TO THE HUSBAND.

A writer in the Arcadian, speaking of "The American Girl at Home," says, "Among the sad things of life is certainly to be classed that contempt for simplicity which is ingrained in the heart of the American girl of fashion in very early years. She has drunk copiously of the oxymel of precocious coquetry long before she is capable of appreciating the glory of true fashion and the fun of that efflorescence of passion of which true coquetry consists. We are no especial admirers of children who are constitutionally shamefaced, who hang their heads before company, and creep back into sensitive silence as soon as an opportunity permits them to do so. But we admire as little the unblushable effrontery of the hot-house child who has been brought up under the bell glass of 'society,' and has nothing natural left in it excepting the original sin, which crops out in the form of impertinence. It is this abnormal self possession which is the early characteristic of the American girl. For this she has to thank her mother and the fashionable fools who are her mother's friends. It is inevitable that the adolescence of such a child should be marked with much that is fast and morbid and trenching on the verge of viciousness. In this school she acquires those meretricious manners, that slang, that swagger, that devil-may-care air, which have rendered her a notoriety wherever she has travelled abroad. The foreigner who comes to this country, and who observes the free and easy manners of our youth and especially of our young girls, is amazed at their boldness and recklessness. We are aware that some bitterness and unfairness have been shown towards the American girl at home; that she has been maliciously represented as a young lady whose principal amusements are young men, novels and candies, and whose only exercise consists in promenading Broadway; but we are inclined to take a less unfavorable view of the matter than this. At the same time, it is not possible to deny that there is a grain of truth in the charge, and we are not amazed that a whole wheat-field of accusation should spring from a grain that has been planted and tended with such malicious irrigation. Girls are made, it is true, for something else than to fit into some quiet nook at home, and rest contentedly there during the remainder of life. There are some good, pious souls we know who would have every young woman, rich or poor, educated in the arts of housekeeping. They would have Clorinda, whose father is a billionaire, descend to the kitchen, make bread and pastry, and familiarize herself with the practical working out of all the more common recipes in the cook-book, just as they would exact the same task from Jane Smith, whose papa is not worth anything at all. How far these advisers are in the right it may be difficult to determine; but the fault with the average American girl, who holds neither a very high nor a very low position in life, is that she does not acquaint herself with any of these processes, and if, like Henrietta in 'Les Femmes Savantes,' she were asked what she saw in marriage to attract, all the answer that she could honestly give would be, 'A husband.' This is sensible, so far as it goes; but we run in danger of seeming very humdrum when we add that if a husband is to be expected to remain all that a young and exacting wife wishes him to be, the kitchen and its correlatives must receive a large share of that wife's attention."

HE NEVER READ THE PAPERS.

A BENIGHTED OLD MISSOURIAN FINDS OUT THAT IT IS WELL TO KEEP UP WITH THE TIMES.—HE THINKS HE SOLD TOO CHEAP.

One of St. Charles' (Mo.) enterprising citizens, who holds that the press is an engine of his sulphuric majesty, and who, for fear of being held in any degree responsible for these satanic revelations, always advertises with a written "notis" stuck on barn doors in the back alleys, where he who runs may read, was last week brought forward several thousand years with such velocity that the centrifugal whirl brushed all of the cobwebs from his brain. He never read the papers, but he does now, and it happened in this way:

About twenty years ago he entered two sections of land in adjoining counties in Illinois, only a few miles distant from the river. He has been paying taxes on them ever since, and for the past five years has been very desirous of selling, but, concealing the desire from the public by avoiding the newspapers, never found a purchaser until a few days ago. He came along in the person of a verdant (?) importation from the press-ridden East. He was "considerin' a notion to settle down to farmin';" but as land was to high about St. Charles, he "guessed he'd go up to Iowa, where he'd heard good farm land could be bought for $5 per acre."

The antediluvian saw his opportunity, and made ready to take this stranger in. He told him of his two tracts in Illinois, gave his price and numbers, and the would-be settler started to see it. He came back in a day or two, and said he liked one piece pretty well, but the other one was too far from a settlement. He would give $4 an acre for the one or $7 for the other; but he wanted the most desirable piece. The farmer "calculated" he would keep this piece, but he would let the other go for $5 an acre, cash.

The stranger, after some higgling, finally agreed take, it, got his deed, and went on his way. The farmer locked up his currency in an old stocking—for he was afraid of banks—and chuckled to think how he had sold his wild land, got a pretty good interest on the cost, and no thanks to any real estate agency or newspaper advertisement. He would not fee a newspaper or read one. It was money and time worse than thrown away. In a day or two he thought he would write to the recorder over there and see what the remaining piece was worth.

He did so, and also gave a description of the piece he had sold. The answer came—the piece remaining was worth about $4 an acre. The piece he had sold was within a mile of a station on the Tamaroa railroad. The railroad ran through a corner of it. It wasn't very good farming land—there was too much coal in it—and a party of Eastern men were there preparing to sink a shaft.

The recorder thought it was worth at least $20,000, and if these miners were going on without authority he had better look into it, adding a postscript that his deed to one of the tracts had just been brought in for record.

KEEP YOUR PROMISE.—A boy borrowed a tool from a carpenter, promising to return it at night. Before evening he was sent away on an errand, and did not return until late. Before he went, he was told that his brother should see the article returned. After he had come home and gone to bed, he inquired and found that the tool had not been sent to its owner. He was much distressed to think his promise had not been kept, but was persuaded to go to sleep, and rise early and carry it home the next morning. By daylight he was up, and nowhere was the tool to be found. After a long and fruitless search, he set off for his neighbor's in great distress, to acknowledge his fault. But how great was his surprise to find the tool on his neighbor's door stone! And then it appeared from the print of his little bare feet in the mud, that the lad had got up in his sleep and carried the tool home, and gone to bed again, without knowing it.

Of course a boy who was prompt in his sleep was prompt when awake. He lived respected, and had the confidence of his neighbors, and was placed it offices of trust and profit. If all grown folks felt as this boy did, there would be a good many tracks of bare feet found some of these bright mornings; and what piles of tools and books would be found lying at their owners' door!

LIKED HER PLACE.—A good story is told at the expense of a somewhat inexperienced housekeeper in this village who found herself one morning without a servant to cook or wash. A few hours' trial convinced her that she must have help, and she started out in search of a girl. After calling at several places without success, she was passing one of the best residences in the town, and observed a tidy-looking woman cleaning the yard. Halting, she required of the woman whether she knew of a girl that could be hired. The answer was in the negative. The lady had by this time become desperate, and resolved to hire the woman before her, although she knew it was wrong to covet her neighbor's servant. In a low tone of voice she began to relate her troubles, and wound up by urging the woman to leave Mrs.—— and come with her, offering her a dollar more a week than she was then receiving. The woman answered that she liked her place, and could not be induced to give it up. And she added:

"Besides, I generally sleep with Mr.——, and I don't think he would allow me to go away."

The lady departed, utterly astonished at what she heard. Her feelings may be imagined when she afterwards learned that she had been talking with the mistress of the house and the wife of one of our most esteemed citizens.—[Fort Plains, N. Y., Register.

Catarrh and Polypus.

Home Testimony.

NEWPORT, R. I., Nov. 6th, 1874.

This is to proclaim what Dr. Carpenter has done for me. I suffered from Catarrh 40 years, and the last 10 years my nasal passages were filled with Polypus. I employed physicians from time to time, and two years ago, went to Boston, and was doctored there three months, and left off worse than I began, and I was almost discouraged. But I felt that I must do something, for I was obliged to keep my mouth open and my health was becoming impaired. So I went to Fall River last Spring, and placed myself under the care of Dr. Carpenter. His treatment proved highly satisfactory. He removed and cured the Polypus, I can breathe naturally, the Catarrh troubles me very little and altogether I am comfortable and as well as a man 60 years of age, can expect to be, and I hope this testimony may be the means of securing relief to other sufferers. I reside in Middletown.

If Alcoholic Stimulants are taken into the blood the heart works faster, and this unnatural speed wears out the vital machinery. All intoxicating nostrums advertised as "tonics," "renovators," &c., produce this disastrous effect, and should be rejected. DR. WALKER'S VEGETABLE VINEGAR BITTERS—an invigorant without the curse of alcohol—is everywhere supplanting these poisons. nov104w

Shall Nature be Sustained?

To give debilitating medicines to the weak is about as sensible as it would be to try to help a man to his feet by kicking him when he was down. That sort of practice is going out of fashion. It has filled so many graveyards that people no longer believe in it.

If those who are not strong by nature expect to avoid the attacks of disease, they must endeavor to acquire the vigor necessary to resist it. How is this to be done? Common sense suggests by the use of invigorating medicine. The great object is to strengthen the system, without exciting it. This object is accomplished by the judicious use of the most potent and genial of all vegetable tonics and alteratives, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Many valuable properties are combined in this preparation. It improves the appetite and renders digestion easy and perfect. It gives steadiness to the nerves, induces a healthy natural flow of bile; prevents constipation without unduly purging the bowels; gently stimulates the circulation, and by promoting a vigorous condition of the physical system, promotes also, that cheerfulness which is the truest indication of a well balanced condition of all the animal powers.

Summer leaves both the body and the mind more or less exhausted. Now is the time to recruit them, and thus forestall the malarious fevers and other complaints which prostrate so many thousands every fall. By quickening the superficial circulation, without creating anything approaching a fever, the Bitters impart tone to the skin, and thus render the surface of the body comparatively impervious to unhealthy external influences.

Hundreds of lives have been saved by the use of Hunt's Remedy, the great kidney medicine. It cures dropsy and all diseases of the kidneys, bladder and urinary organs. It is purely vegetable and used by physicians in their practice daily. Don't delay, but try it immediately. nov7-1w

☞ The undoubted utility of Milk of Magnesia, both as a preventive and a cure, of the summer complaints of children should prompt the boards of health of all large cities to order its distribution gratuitously among the poorer residents of densely populated districts. oct28-1m

If the druggist offers any kind of herb-flavored alcohol for dyspepsia, biliousness, or any other ailment, tell him that you want "medicine," not a "bar-room drink." Ask him for DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA BITTERS, the best regulating preparation known and which you know is free from "Satan's Elixir." Reject all the fiery "Tonics" and "Appetizers," and cling to that remedy. There is no medicine that compares with it. oct10-1w

☞ One of the most serious objections to the use of Magnesia, both carbonate and calcined, which is in common use, is that it adheres to the coat of the stomach and intestines, and occasions obstructions, which are annoying, and often productive of disease. Such an incident never occurs in the use of Milk of Magnesia. oct28-1m

☞ Milk of Magnesia is the best and safest remedy yet discovered for all diseases with which children are afflicted. It corrects sourness or acidity of the stomach, gives the child a quiet, natural sleep, and invigorates the stomach and bowels. This valuable preparation is prescribed by the leading physicians. GENERAL NEWS.

FROM WASHINGTON.

The Alabama Claims Court.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.

The court of commissioners of the Alabama claims previous to their adjournment on Friday, passed an order that if any counsellor wished to print his testimony, he could withdraw it from the clerk for that purpose, on filing a receipt and the date at which he would return the testimony to the clerk. This order, however, does not include papers from the Department of State which belong to the government.

Surrender of the Hostile Cheyennes.

The following dispatch was received here today:

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 9.

Adjutant General, Washington, D. C.:

A dispatch received from Gen. Pope through Gen. Sheridan, announces that Big Horn, a Cheyenne Chief, with twenty warriors, forty-eight women, twenty-nine children and over two hundred horses, surrendered unconditionally to Col. Hall at the Cheyenne agency, Nov. 4th. The warriors are held in confinement.

(Signed) WM. D. WHIPPLE, Adjt. Gen.

Interesting to Shippers of Merchandize.

The circular issued by the Treasury Department to collectors of customs enables shipments of merchandise from China to enter at San Francisco and be exported to Europe through New York or any other Atlantic port, and vice versa, from Europe to Asia, without appraisement.

What the District Commissioners Have Done.

The commissioners of the District of Columbia today returned the last instalment of the United States loan. They have also paid large sums to laborers and others in the discharge of debts contracted by the late district government, the increased rates of taxation giving them ample funds.

The Congressional Committees Assembly.

It was expected the House committee on appropriations would hold a meeting today to commence the work of preparing the regular appropriation bills in advance of the assembling of Congress, but no quorum was present. Messrs. Garfield, Starkweather and O'Neil are now here, and Wheeler, of New York, and Hale, of Maine, will arrive tonight. A majority of the committee will undoubtedly be here this week, when the estimates of the various departments will be distributed to individual members, who will proceed to prepare bills commited to their respective charge.

The Senate committee on appropriations will assemble here the 15th with a view to laying out their work and making detailed examinations of the various features of the civil service, so as to be prepared to act promptly upon the annual appropriation bills as soon as they are received from the House. Senator Morrill, of Maine, chairman of this committee, arrived last night, and has taken quarters for the Winter. He will also devote much time between now and the end of the month to the work of completing the draft of a new form of government for the District of Columbia, the main features of which have been already agreed upon by the special committee appointed last session for that purpose, consisting of himself and Senator Hamilton, of Maryland, and Representatives E. R. Hoar, of Massachusetts, and Mitchell, of Wisconsin.

The report of this committee, which will also by direction of Congress treat of the true relations of the district of Columbia to the federal government, will be presented at the opening of the December session. It is believed the committee will recommend the placing of the affairs of the District in the charge of the commissioners, with strictly defined powers, and carefully guard the responsibility for the various local departments which they are to supervise.

FROM NEW YORK.

The Suit of the Beecher Scandal.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.

In the city court chambers, Brooklyn, this morning, Judge Neilson, on application of the counsel for Beecher ex-Judge Morris, counsel for the other side, offering no objection, continued the stay of proceedings in the Tilton-Beecher suit until the argument was heard on an appeal for granting a bill of particulars. Francis D. Moulton and Theodore Tilton were present during the proceedings.

The counsel appeared during the morning before Judge Reynolds in the city court room and entered a plea of "not guilty," in a libel suit brought by Miss Edna Dean Proctor against Francis D. Moulton.

The Trouble at Eufaula, Spring Hill, and Mobile.

The United States marshal at Montgomery, Ala., reports under date of the 4th inst., officially, that nine persons were dead at Eufaula on the morning of the 3d, as the result of the riot on the 2d. Only one was a white man. He says the firing was commenced by whites on the pretext of defending a Democratic negro at the hands of others of his race, whereupon orders like this were issued in a loud tone by parties in the crowd—"Fall in Company A," "Fall in Company B," which orders were apparently obeyed. This shows a previous organization and preparation on the part of the whites. No negro was seen armed or firing which accounts for the heavy mortality among the blacks. The casualties among the whites were supposed to have been caused by their own friends.

A riot also occurred at Spring Hill, Barbour county, during the counting of the ballots, the particulars of which are not yet received. At this place Judge E. M. Keils, of the city court of Eufaula, was one of the U. S. supervisors of the election. It is thought the object of the conspiracy was to destroy the poll box, which contained a large majority of Republican votes, and in the amente to kill Judge Keils. The box was destroyed, but Keils escaped; his son, however, only fifteen years old, was mortally wounded. Some riotous demonstrations also occurred in Mobile, the particulars of which had not been received by the marshal.

Immense preparations are being made here for the reception of the Knights Templar of the union who attended the convention of the order in this city Dec. 1st. From 7,700 to 10,000 knights are expected.

The St. Martinsville Prisoners Admitted to Bail.

The five St. Martinsville prisoners today gave bond for their appearance in the United States circuit court in this city the 2d Monday in January. The charge against them in violation of the enforcement act, but there is one affidavit in these cases by a colored man, John Heist, in which the accused is charged with acts of intimidation towards him at the election polls, whereby Heist says he suffered heavy damages from the loss of his cotton crop, alleging that he was through fear of his life compelled to leave home.

The Simms Homicide.

The trial of Amos Simms, the successful negro candidate at the late election in Terre Bonne parish, charged with homicide in killing one of the party of negroes who assaulted and pursued him, took place yesterday. The coroner's jury in the case of the deceased, which was entirely colored, returned a verdict of justifiable homicide, and Simms was released.

Minnesota.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 10.

Very nearly complete returns show that the Republican state ticket is elected by over 5,000 majority. Dunnell, Republican, for Congress in the first district, is elected by 3,401 majority. W. S. King, Republican, for Congress in the third district, has 2,311 majority. In the second district the result is still uncertain. Straight, Republican candidate, has 207 majority and is probably elected, but it is possible subsequent returns may defeat him. The legislature is Republican by twenty-seven majority on joint ballot, but in this count are included several independent Republicans and anti-monopolists, whose votes are uncertain.

LOVE ON THE YELLOWSTONE.

A SUDDEN PROPOSAL OF MARRIAGE ACCOMPANIED BY A SATISFACTORY INVENTORY OF PROPERTY.—THE BEST HUNTER AND GUIDE IN THE ROCKY MOUNTAINS IS RESPECTFULLY DECLINED BY A LADY WHO IS ENGAGED TO A GENTLEMAN IN THE STATES.

One of Gallatin's fair daughters, says a Montana paper, while returning from Wonderland, stopped with her companions at a Yellowstone ranch. They had been there scarcely an hour when one of the proprietors gained the ear of our heroine and informed her that hard by was one of the finest, largest, best raspberry patches he ever saw or heard tell of. "Why, they could just scoop them up," etc. He urged upon her the necessity of the berries being plucked immediately, as they were dead ripe, millions of them. She was delighted at the prospect of going for the berries, but when she ascertained our hero was bent on acting as guide, then her ardor became dampened. However, they started.

We bid adieu to any further description of this novel love scene, as now follows the conversation in which a mountaineer wooed a former city belle, who two hours before he had never seen, showing the absurdity of the old "faint heart" and "fair lady business.

"Say, do you see them fences?"

"Oh, yes, they are nice fences."

"Well, them fences is ourn."

"Whose?"

"My pard's and mine—half is mine and half is his'n—and those fields is ourn too, and the house and stock and chickens and mortgage and all on the ranch is ourn—half is mine and half is his'n."

"Ah, indeed!"

"Yes—and you don't know how much we got in the bank besides, and if I was to get a wife you bet I'd get more than half. And I suppose you don't know that I am the best hunter and guide in the Rocky Mountains? Well, I am, and what is more, I have enough quartz to buy out all the post offices in Montana, and pay for running them besides. Why I have a fortune just in one mine alone. The boys tell me it's a brass mine, but it ain't brass, it's gold, sure, and if it ain't that it's good quartz, anyhow, and—don't—don't you think I ought to get married?"

"Most assuredly I do. A young man possessing your wealth and good looks should not hesitate a moment about entering into matrimony. I am surprised to think you are still single. Are you?"

"Well, yes; I suppose so. But say, do you see them granaries? Well, I just have enough grain over yonder to last two years, and so you see I can stand off the grasshoppers one year anyhow. And you needn't be afraid of Injuns up here; they don't come this high up—and say, don't you want to marry me? There now."

"Oh, sir, why—why this is so unexpected, you know, and besides, I,—I should deem it my duty, while thanking you for honoring me with your hand, to inform you that I am engaged to be married to a gentleman in the States. I regret that your affections are not bestowed upon some young lady who is heart-free. Please do not refer to the subject again."

"Well, I would not have done so now, only I heard as how you did not talk pretty to a nice got up Bozeman chap, and told him you did not want to marry him no how, and I supposed after that I stood a good show of catching you myself. And—and (raising his voice) there is the raspberry patch over there, and come to think of it—I do not think they are as thick now as they used to be."

HOME TESTIMONY.

Permanent Cures of Scrofulous Catarrh.

Testimony of a Citizen of Newport.

My son and daughter were sufferers from Scrofulous Catarrh from birth, and with discharges, swellings upon their necks; and an utter inability to breathe through the nose, they were uncomfortable enough, when we placed them under the care of Dr. Carpenter in 1865. His remedies cured them in a few months and they remain well to this day. I publish this with the hope it may be the means of securing relief to others. S. B. BREWSTER,
PERRY HOUSE,
Newport, Nov. 2d, 1874.

Testimony of Mr. Burns,

GROCER AT 42 FERRY STREET.

(From Fall River News.)

For the good of the community, and Dr. Carpenter, of the Mount Hope House, I advertise my cure. I suffered many years from a dangerous, disagreeable disease of my head, was not able to breathe through my nose, and the collections passed down my throat, and was gradually undermining my health. Dr. Carpenter's treatment, last Spring, cured me. I am now well, and in good condition. HENRY BURNS.
Fall River, Oct. 8th, 1874.

DEAFNESS CURED.

STATEMENT OF A RESIDENT OF FALL RIVER.

This certifies that Dr Carpenter, at the Mount Hope House, has cured me of Deafness and Discharges of the Ear of many years' standing. When I applied to Dr. C., I could not hear unless addressed close to my ear, and was totally unfit for business. A course of Dr. C.'s treatment has cured the discharges, and restored my hearing so that I can hear the tick of a watch a foot from my ear, and ordinary conversation without difficulty. My friends are more than pleased, for they did not think I could be cured, as I had been treated by several doctors and received no benefit.—As my acquaintance in Fall River is not large I will refer to Mr. Geo. E. Bullinton, No. 57 Pleasant street, who is well known and conversant with all the facts of my case. GEO. G. C. HANLON,
45 Second Street.
Fall River, Oct. 1.

A CARD FROM WALTER SCOTT, Esq.,

EDITOR OF BORDER CITY HERALD, OF FALL RIVER.

I have known Dr. Carpenter since he commenced practice in this city, and I am satisfied that he is a skillful physician and has been successful in the treatment of a great majority of the cases in which he has been consulted. Of my own personal knowledge, I have reason to testify that quite a number of the individuals cured were nearly hopeless in their condition; some about blind, others deaf, and others laboring under Bronchial and Catarrhal affections, and I have seen the same persons restored under his treatment to their normal state of health. I therefore, knowing these things, without hesitation recommend him to persons suffering from the maladies he has made his special study for years. WALTER SCOTT.

Letter from Mr. Burns.

(From Fall River News.)

FALL RIVER, May 15, 1874.

MR. EDITOR:—I wish to acknowledge through your paper the debt I owe Dr. Carpenter, who saved me from blindness. I was taken down in February with a severe, acute Inflammation, which confined me to the house several weeks. The malady was so dangerous that for many days the loss of one eye was imminent, but the Doctor's constant attention, tender and successful treatment saved my sight, and I am now well and about my business as usual.

VOICE RESTORED.

TESTIMONY OF MISS GARDNER.

(From Fall River News.)

DR. CARPENTER:—Dear Sir,—My thanks and gratitude are yours. When we consulted you last April, I was miserable indeed; I had lost both my health and my voice, and for two and a half years I could only whisper faintly. I had been doctored so much that we had little faith in the ability of any physician to restore me, but your treatment has performed a cure. I can talk aloud, and my health is good, better than for years. You may publish this if you wish; and as I do not reside in Fall River, I will refer to Mr. Wm. H. Mason, No. 41 North Main street, and Mr. and Mrs. Mason Rounds, No. 64 Durfee street, with whom I resided during treatment. Respectfully yours,
MISS HATTIE GARDNER.
Swansea, Mass., Sept. 16, 1874.

Scrofula and St. Vitus Dance Cured.

(From Fall River Herald.)

When we toook our daughter Ellen to Dr. Carpenter last May, at the Mount Hope House, she was in a terrible condition from Scrofula and St. Vitus Dance, and was not willing to go among folks, for her limbs jerked and twitched so she had not much control over them, but through Dr. Carpenter's skill she has been restored and is now well. We want this cure known, for some of our acquaintances have taken their children to Europe for treatment, thinking they could not be cured in this country. This case is well known by our neighbors. GEORGE HEAP,
White Block, Border City Mills,
Fall River, Sept. 10, 1874.

Mr. A. D. White's Card.

(From Fall River News.)

FALL RIVER, May 23, 1874.

To my Friends and the Public:

It affords me great satisfaction to be able to testify to the success of Dr. Carpenter in the treatment of my Ears, which were a source of trouble and annoyance to me more than twenty years. Dr. C.'s treatment restored them, and they have been well several months. I have great confidence in Dr. Carpenter's skill and success in practice, and do not hesitate to recommend him.

Catarrh and Blindness.

(From Fall River News.)

Testimony of Mrs. J. Clomb, of Fall River.

I was diseased with an aggravated form of Catarrh ten years, and in consequence my eyes became affected in December last, and grew worse until I could not go about without being led. Was under the care of several doctors and at the Boston Infirmary, but got no help until I consulted Dr. Carpenter at the Mount Hope House, April 2d. Under his treatment I began to improve immediately, and now I consider myself cured. I think everyone should know there is a physician in Fall River who can cure such diseases. As I am not very well known in this city, I am at liberty to refer to W. Scott, Esq., No. 1 Ferry street, who saw me when I was in a state of Blindness and since I was cured. MRS. JEREMIAH CLOMB.

A CARD FROM

Mr. John Beattie Jr.

(From Fall River News.)

FALL RIVER, Jan. 22, 1874.

W. H. CARPENTER, M. D.,—My Dear Sir:—Allow me thus publicly to express my gratitude for the great benefit conferred upon me by your treatment. I was afflicted for years with Catarrh which had become a constant torment to me, the irritation and inflammation having increased until ulceration was the consequence. Your treatment has been attended with the happiest results. I am now comfortable, my head feels well, and I believe myself cured of that terrible disease. JOHN BEATTIE, Jr.

REASONS WHY

THE

REMINGTON

Family Sewing Machines

ARE

Superior to all Others:

1st—Their SIMPLICITY.—The use of them is very easily acquired, and any girl of ordinary intelligence is capable of keeping them in order.

2d—The CONSTRUCTION of the Machine is such that it may be run at a higher rate of speed than any shuttle machine now in the market. In factories, where the speed has been registered, over 1,000 stitches per minute have been attained with ease.

3d—Their DURABILITY.—Being so strong in all their parts, and fitted with great mechanical nicety, and being free from the harsh, jarring movements and friction, so common in inferior machines, they will wear a long time without repair of any kind.

4th—Their ADAPTABILITY.—By a simple change of the needle and thread, they will sew the finest cambric or the heaviest leather. All the various kinds of boots and shoes, buckskin sewing, clothing, caps, stays, shirts, mantles and dressmaking can be done with equal facility.

5th—The SHUTTLE.—Being large, it will carry a great quantity of thread—thus saving in a great measure, the trouble of filling the bobbins.

6th—The means of getting at the required TENSION on the Threads is so simple and complete, that an even backstitch on both sides of the material (which will not rip or ravel) can be readily obtained.

7th—They will sew with equal facility Silk, Twist, Linen Thread and common Spool Cotton.

8th—They have no rotary cams, cog-wheels or lever arms to make a noise, run hard or to get out of order.

By the new and peculiar movement of needle and shuttle and thread-controlling parts, there is less wear or strain on the thread used. The thread being set in the material uninjured, the work is therefore better and stronger than that done on many other machines.

Newport Daily News.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1874.

FLIRTATION.

We lingered out the season,
Far into the cooler days,
And the votaries of fashion
All had flown their different ways.

We had wandered down the sea-beach
With the moonlight o'er us straying;
Listened to the night winds' whisper,
Wondered what the waves were saying!

And again we stood together
Near the ocean's ebb and flowing,
While the blushes of the sunset
On the waves were redly glowing.

"Dearest," said she, hesitating,
"Ah! too long we both have tarried,
To-morrow, we must part forever;
For, my darling, I am—married!"

"Married!" I exclaimed, upstarting;
"Married!" murmured with a sigh;
"Then is this indeed a parting,
For—my darling—so am I!"

TEXAN JUSTICE.

The criminal court was in session, and I gladly seized the opportunity of seeing the proceedings. Almost all the criminals were negroes. The man on trial was a negro, charged with a breach of the law in having carried weapons at the last election, not secretly but openly. The counsel who defended him proved beyond a doubt that he was acting in the capacity of a policeman at that time, and was entitled to wear them. there were two colored men on the jury, and he pressed this fact upon their special notice again and again. The judge summed up dead in favor of the prisoner, almost ordering the jury to acquit him. They retired, and in fifteen minutes brought in a verdict of guilty. The counsel for the defense took it as a matter of course, and applied for a new trial, which the judge immediately granted. There was some buzzing around the prosecuting attorney, and then he told the judge that he need not fix a date for a new trial, as he would "nolle prosequi" the case; whereat the judge gave the merest ghost of a smile, and the counsel for the defense grinned, and the man was discharged free. "What does it all mean?" said I to a young lawyer with whom I had scraped acquaintance; "I don't understand why everybody looks so mad, and why the judge seemed amused." "Oh! it's a political case. You see, the nigger hadn't done anything. But there's a general movement among the Democrats to stick all the niggers into the penitentiary; and as they contract them out for works of public improvement, it is supposed to be a benefit to the community and an advantage to the state. But old Judge Walker is as square as a die; he doesn't know any politics on the bench, and the prosecuting attorney know perfectly well that every time they got a verdict of guilty against that nigger the counsel for his defense would demand a new trial, and Walker would grant it. So he gave it up as a bad job. "But excuse me," I burst out in a white heat. "Am I to infer that this is a general practice, this legal persecution of the colored man?" "Yes, Sir," he responded; "you are to infer that very thing. The people in eastern Texas don't want them. They have all the white labor they want. And they'll either send every man of them to the penitentiary in time, or they'll drive them out of this section."—[Special Texas Correspondent of the New York Times.

TELLING THE SEX IN EGGS.—Last Winter an old country poultry keeper told me he could distinguish the sex in eggs; I laughed at him, and was none the less skeptical when he told me the following secret: "Eggs with the air bladder on the center of the crown of the egg will produce cockerels; those with the bladder on one side will produce pullets." The old man was so certain of the truth of this dogma, and his poultry-yard so far confirmed it, that I determined to make experiments upon it this year. I have done so, carefully registering every egg "bladder vertical," or "bladder on one side," rejecting every one in which it was not decidedly out of the center. The following is the result: Fifty-eight chickens were hatched, three are dead, eleven are yet too young to decide upon their sex; of the remaining forty-four every one has turned out exactly true to the old man's theory. This, of course, may be an accidental coincidence, but I shall certainly try the experiment again.—[Correspondence of the New York Tribune.

THE UTILITY OF HUSBANDS.—There lives a widow out West who never did anything useful until after her husband died and left her half a dozen children to take care of. She thought a great of her husband, but he did not leave her enough substance to buy him a gravestone, and this fact set her to work. She determined that the poor man's grave should have a respectable mark. So she got a marble slab and went to work on it, making a gravestone for the departed. Thus she began to carve out her fortune. She finished the work and learned the trade of a stone-cutter at the same time. She soon did some other marble word and offered it for sale. It proved acceptable, and she was given a permanent place in a marble-yard, and is making regular artisan's wages and keeping her family in good style. Sometimes a husband does turn out a benefit to a woman, though she may not realize his use until she loses him.
